1. Introduction / welcome

This is the module on Contemporary Music Styles and represents an integral part to the development of popular music and culture. The student will not only gain an understanding and knowledge but will hopefully enjoy the subject matter as well. The module will cover a wide range of Contemporary Music Styles equipping the student with listening analysis, recent historical research, critical evaluation and discussion. The student will evaluate the work of others and receive critical evaluation during the term.

2.0. Module Description

In coordination with various listening sources and materials presented by the module tutor, the student will gain a basic understanding of contemporary music styles and major artists that also links them to musical lineage. This is a one term syllabus that encompasses a wide range of genres and styles from around the world concentration on the past 40 years. All major innovators from various periods of time will be referenced in regard to their developments in rhythm, melody and harmony as well as their use of form. Recordings and archival film will be used to extend the knowledge of the periods, styles and forms as well as historical and cultural upheavals taking place at the same time. Where possible, other modules will be stressed such as Jazz History, Western Music History, Ethno-Musicology and Harmony. Students will also be tasked with researching artists and styles and presenting them with critical peer evaluation.

2.1 Overall Module aims:
